The St. Louis Green Business Challenge Apprentice Program is a business solution for small and medium sized companies taking the first steps towards sustainable business practices. This three-month program guides participants through policies and actions that deliver “triple-bottom line” results (financial, people, environmental) for their company.

Our company is very lean staff-wise. We find the Green Challenge helps keep us on task where sustainability is concerned. It’s a great way to start or augment a sustainability program and provides a guide for our efforts.

Bill Fechner | CEO
The Advertisers Printing Co., Inc.

Two Seminars Will Teach Your Company:

- Cost-saving strategies and success stories from local companies
- Sustainability policies for your employees, vendors and supply chain
- Energy efficiency incentives from area utilities
- Waste and energy reduction actions and clean transportation options
- Educational tools to help teach sustainability at work and home

In Addition, Challenge Apprentice Participants Will:

- Receive customized coaching from the sustainability experts at the Missouri Botanical Garden
- Join a growing network of area companies "going green"
- Share your company's accomplishments with the St. Louis business community

Our city was already committed to sustainability but the St. Louis Green Business Challenge showed us we could do more AND provided the resources and contacts to do it. We love the Challenge – it's been instrumental in helping expand St. Peters' sustainability initiatives!

Debra Knoble | Sustainability Specialist
City of St. Peters

Program Start Date Options:
October 9th | 8:00 — 11:00 a.m.
Missouri Botanical Garden
Commerce Bank Center for Science Education
4651 Shaw Boulevard
St. Louis, MO 63110

Enrollment fee: $195; $300 for non-Chamber members

For questions or to register:
Contact Eric Schneider at eschneider@stlregionalchamber.com

The St. Louis Green Business Challenge is a partnership of:

Presented by:

www.stlouisgreenchallenge.com